Dear Friends:

It gives me a great deal of pleasure to send my greetings as you celebrate the 19th Annual President's Gala for Adelphi University. This year's event is indeed noteworthy, as you have selected outstanding individuals for recognition, Michael and Christine Tiedemann and Dr. Paula Malone.

As a graduate of Adelphi University, Class of '89 and as a member of the Board of Trustees, Michael and his wife Christine have been dedicated to supporting the university's mission of providing a superb education for its students. To further assist students and help insure success, Michael and Christine established the Tiedemann Family Endowed Scholarship at Adelphi. As longtime residents of Garden City, Michael and Christine have been deeply involved in numerous community endeavors and continue to give generously to several important charitable organizations.

Dr. Paula Malone, a noted leader in the field of child development, has been involved with the University through her strong support and generous donations to the Alice Brown Early Learning Center (ELC). Her strong relationship with the ELC has helped to insure that the center remains an innovative leader in early childcare and educational best practices.

The common denominator for tonight's honorees are their steadfast commitment to Adelphi's students, faculty and administration. Their boundless support and determination to insure that Adelphi University continues to be one of Long Island's premier institutions of higher learning, will help prepare countless men and women for successful careers in the future. Tonight's gala also provides me with the opportunity to express my sincere appreciation to all of Adelphi's administrators, faculty and support staff for your steadfast commitment to insuring student success!

My congratulations and very best wishes to all of tonight's honorees.

Best regards,

Phil Boyle
